The new exhibit for the month of January features the art work of Megan Kissinger, titled “Of Shining Water.”

Megan is a native Floridian, living and working in Southwest Florida. Her main interest lies in forms, textures and rhythms of living things. Avian and floral images, both figurative and abstract, are an almost constant theme running throughout most of her creative efforts. Megan traditionally employs charcoal or paint on canvas and believes that in many ways her art isn't as much of a product as a service. “If I never made a penny on my work, I'd still be out there painting away,” she confesses. “And, I love teaching people about nature with my art.” Perhaps it is her background in scientific illustration that helps her to present the beauty and the connectedness that she sees in every aspect of the natural universe, but it is her passion that drives her attempt to “make viewers aware of how everything in the world is connected in some way.” To see more of Megan's work, visit her website at www.megankissinger.com. The Friends of the Museum of the Everglades will host a reception to meet the artist from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, January 12, at the Museum, 105 W. Broadway, in Everglades City. Light refreshments will be served.
